To visit an idea and fall in love with it and to run with it so that it explores new possibilities is at the heart of the formal relaunch of a great design object, a classic from the last century. This has happened with the Marcel coffee table, designed by the Japanese maestro and naturalized Italian, Kazuhide Takahama, who passed away in 2010.

Laddove la storia
è un sentimento riconfermato.

This is about history
as a reaffirmed feeling.

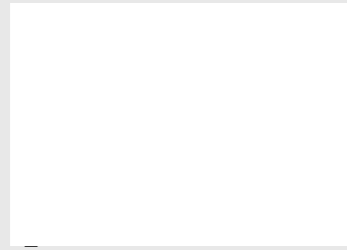

Faithfully re-proposed in chromed metal rod and with clear or smoked glass, this revisitation develops some variations in the materials, bringing in lacquered wood and marble as top alternatives. It extends the format options in the same proportions.

With careful due respect for Takahama's design,
locating and reawakening
the spirit from which
this design was inspired, Marcel continues its journey through the history of design.
